

CATARRH

Catarrh has become such a common disease that a person entirely free from this disgusting complaint is seldom met with. It is customary to speak of Catarrh as nothing more serious than a bad cold, a simple inflammation of the nose and throat. It is, in fact, a complicated and very dangerous disease; if not at first, it very soon becomes so.

The blood is quickly contaminated by the foul secretions, and the poison through the general circulation is carried to all parts of the system.

Salves, washes and sprays are unsatisfactory and disappointing, because they do not reach the seat of the trouble. S. S. S. does. It cleanses the blood of the poison and eliminates it from the system all catarrhal secretions, and thus cures thoroughly and permanently the worst cases.

Mr. T. A. Williams, a leading dry-goods merchant of Spartanburg, S. C., writes: "For years I had a severe case of nasal Catarrh, with all the disagreeable effects which belong to that disease, and which made life painful and unendurable. I used medicaments prescribed by leading physicians and suggested by numbers of friends, but without getting any better. Then I began to use S. S. S. It had the desired effect, and I cured me after taking eighteen bottles. In my opinion S. S. S. is the only medicine now in use that will effect a permanent cure of Catarrh."

SSS is the only purely vegetable blood purifier known, and the greatest of all blood medicines and tonics.

If you have Catarrh don't wait until it becomes deep-seated and chronic, but begin at once in the use of S. S. S., and send for our book on Blood and Skin Diseases and write our physicians about your case.

FARM & GARDEN

Mr W C Terhune, of Mercer county, sold a pair of aged mules for $205.

The "wet spell" has made the wish-ed-for tobacco season, and means Christmas money for farmers.

The animal weighing the most at any period of its age for the food consumed is the most profitable.

The hog feeder and breeder must keep one eye on the individual animal and the other on the Chicago market.

The annual report of the New Orleans Board of Trade gives the 1911 area in rice in Louisiana at 225,000 acres.

Exports of timothy seed declined from 15,075,186 bushels in the fiscal year 1899-1900 to 7,215,806 bushels in 1900-01.

The 1901 onion crop in the commercial onion-growing belt of the United States, as estimated by the American Agriculturist, is 2,990,000 bushels against 3,738,000 bushels in 1900.

The large fruit cannery at Santa Ana, California, packs about 30,000 cases of fruit annually. During the busy season the establishment employs a force of 350 hands and pays about $1,500 per week in wages.

D C Lisle has sold to various parties 700 barrels of corn at $3 in the field. J M Pickrel delivered to Well 53 export cattle, most of them at 54c. They weighed about 1,450 pounds.—Winchester Democrat.

In 1875 Fred Wellhouse, the Kansas "apple king," was a wage-earner. He knew a good deal about orchards, however, and began on a small scale to raise fruit. Now he has 1,240 acres of orchards, and his apple crop this year is 60,000 bushels.

A large meeting of Carroll county farmers was held at the Court House in Carrollton for the purpose of organizing the Burley Tobacco Growers' Association of forty-one counties in the State which produce burley. The farmers are dissatisfied over the low prices of tobacco, and this movement is on foot for their own interest.

The final crop report of the season has been issued from the State Agricultural Department. It is made up from the reports of correspondents in about 100 counties, and is devoted mostly to the condition of the growing crop of wheat, which does not at this early time indicate that it will be a record breaker. The cattle to be fed during the winter are only 67 per cent. of the stock of last winter.

The manager of Swift's Packing House in Kansas City has had the stomachs of the animals killed examined to see what proportion were being fed on wheat. He found that 75 per cent. of the hogs, cattle and sheep were fed wholly on wheat and 90 per cent. of the poultry. This shows where winter wheat is going instead of being marketed.

A press dispatch says scores of cattle are dying in Christian county from a peculiar disease, supposed to be smut. Thomas H. Elliott, of Kennebec, lost 15 head; James Ferguson, of Casky, a dozen, and many farmers have lost all their milk cows. In nearly every instance the stock had been eating fodder from corn stalks on which there was much smut, and were poisoned.

PRESIDENT'S SECRETARY.

Some of the Multifarious Duties Performed by That Much-in-Demand Official.

The position of secretary to the president of the United States is an arduous one. In the rendering of its multitudinous services, it calls for the business qualifications of a methodical and systematic clerk, in the performance of the daily routine of official work, and the finesse of a practiced diplomat in meeting and satisfactorily adjusting situations which naturally come before him as an intermediary between the president and an assorted public, each individual of which believes himself entitled to a portion of the time and interest of the chief executive, says Success.

The task of handling and answering the white house mail is in itself no small one, the president receiving from 200 to 1,200 letters a day. Important or not, each of these communications receives due attention, the secretary carefully sorting and classifying them; presenting some to the personal attention of the president, referring others to the department or person to which each properly belongs, while all receive courteous acknowledgment from the president's representative.

The secretary is also required to meet and dispose of the numerous visitors who call on the president at times not set aside for his public receptions, and whose business ranges all the way from that relative to the appointment of a supreme court judge or the governor of a turbulent territory to the obtaining of the presidential autograph for a school-girl's album.

To deal with this heterogeneous mass in such a way as to best serve the ends of both business and courtesy, while economizing his own time and easing the strain on the president's personal attention by selecting the really important from the trivial quest—sorting the grain from the chaff—giving offense to none, and sending all away with pleasant words and smiling faces, requires endless resources of tact and good judgment.

The secretary is also expected to keep at his fingers' ends the details of all the official business of the executive office, and the president is likely to send for him frequently each day to consult him regarding official engagements which have been made by him, to seek information and advice with him upon some matter under consideration, or, at a moment's notice, to bring papers and data in some case demanding immediate attention.

A MAN-EATING ELEPHANT.

Encounter with an Animal That Was Supposed to Be a Devourer of Humans.

The natives tell tales of man-eating elephants, but there is no such thing. When I was at the village of the Boorokas they told me of an elephant that it was impossible to kill. He had a charmed life. They made him out to be a monster, writes William Stamps Cherry, in McClure's Magazine. He ran about in their plantations, charging every man he saw. He had been the terror of the village for years, and had killed several people. He would suddenly disappear, and as suddenly come back again. At the time I was there he had just killed one of the guards of the plantation, and, strange to say, they could not find the man's body. His but had been torn down, and the elephant tracks were all around, showing that he had done the work. The natives all declared that the elephant had eaten him, and no amount of argument would convince them that it was contrary to the nature of an elephant to eat flesh. My own opinion is that after the elephant had gored the man to death with his tusks, a leopard had carried away the body. They showed me the elephant's tracks, and declared his tusks were as big as a tree standing near, which measured 18 inches in diameter. The footprints at least were large, and showed that he was no small beast. I organized a hunting party, and following his tracks all day long came upon him about five o'clock in the afternoon as he was digging roots. I crept up behind a cocoagum palm tree, so as to be on the broad side of him. I waited until he let his ears fall back on his body to give me the exact spot where to shoot—the ear marking the perpendicular line of the body shot. Then I clipped the line with a No. 4 ball just two inches from its outer diameter, and behind the front leg. He doubled up, turned halfway round, and fell on the wounded side; the ball having passed through both lungs to the opposite side, where it could be felt through the skin with the finger. His tusks, although not as large as reported, were of good size. His body measurements were slightly larger than those of Jumbo.

A Russian Woman Aeronaut.

Miss Clara Polzsky is a Russian inventor, whose forte is aerial navigation. The czarina recently honored Miss Polzsky with her presence at a dress rehearsal of the high-flying machine. Miss Polzsky has designed her air machine on distinctly original lines; she uses no gas, but has her egg-shaped airship just opened at the top and fitted at the base with an electric motor apparatus. Accompanied by a little girl, the lady ascended to a height of about 60 yards at her demonstration meeting, a sail spreading gracefully as she rose in the air, and after remaining there poised for awhile she descended in her ship, proving that it was perfectly amenable to control and a very promising invention.—Lady's Field.
